

CASE STUDY:

Caldwell Electrical Contractors Streamlines SDS Management for Improved Efficiency with TotalSDS™ Manager

Executive Summary

Margie Sleigher, Director of Human Resources with Caldwell Electrical Contractors, was struggling with the labor-intensive and time-consuming task of managing Safety Data Sheets (SDS) manually. After exploring several digital solutions, she chose TotalSDS™ Manager due to its ease of use and essential features. The implementation process was smooth, supported by excellent customer service.

Since adopting TotalSDS™ Manager, Margie has saved at least 10 hours per month, significantly improving her workflow and allowing her to focus on other critical tasks. This case study outlines the challenges Margie faced, the solution provided by TotalSDS™ Manager, the results achieved, and the overall impact on the business.

The Challenges

Before subscribing to TotalSDS™ Manager, Margie managed all her company's SDSs manually, a process she described as "very labor-intensive." She would spend a significant amount of time searching for the most current SDS online or contacting manufacturers and then uploading them into her system. This time-consuming task detracted from other responsibilities, such as auditing operational operations and ensuring compliance. Margie expressed frustration over the manual process, which was not only inefficient but also prone to errors and outdated information.

The Solution

Margie chose TotalSDS™ Manager after reviewing several digital solutions. She appreciated that the platform was straightforward, without unnecessary extras, making it a perfect fit for her needs. The implementation process was seamless, supported by exceptional customer service. Margie highlighted the importance of the software's mobile accessibility, particularly for her field team who could now access SDSs on their iPads, ensuring immediate availability during customer requests and safety concerns.

Results

Since implementing TotalSDS™ Manager, Caldwell Electrical Contractors has experienced substantial time savings. Margie estimates that she now saves

“Just having the peace of mind that the SDSs are secure, we can access them whenever, wherever we need to, and that they are going to be current at all times without me having to spend hours Google searching and making sure that I've got the latest and greatest. TotalSDS™ Manager has been incredibly helpful and efficient, saving me at least 10 hours every month—time that I can now invest in achieving more strategic HR goals, making the software invaluable to our operations.”
